I. Introduction

1. The present report is the twentieth consolidated report on the United Nations Register of Conventional Arms issued by the Secretary-General since the establishment of the Register.* The General Assembly, in paragraphs 2-5 of resolution 66/39, called upon Member States to provide their data and information on international transfers of major conventional arms covered by the Register, including "nil" reports and additional background information, on an annual basis.

2. Pursuant to the recommendations of the 2006 Group of Governmental Experts on the continuing operation of the United Nations Register of Conventional Arms and its further development, in 2011 the Register's database was developed into a user-friendly, map-based web platform allowing for immediate comparison of all data on arms exports and imports submitted since the establishment of the United Nations Register (available from un-register.org).

3. In accordance with the recommendations mentioned above, the Office for Disarmament Affairs also developed an electronic reporting facility for Member States.

4. On 2 May 2012, the Office for Disarmament Affairs sent a note verbale to Member States requesting them to submit their reports no later than 31 May 2012. The replies received are reproduced in sections III and IV below. Any further national reports and additional information received from Governments will be issued as addenda to the present report.

5. The originals of the replies from Member States are available from the Office for Disarmament Affairs. The annual reports and other relevant information on the Register of Conventional Arms are available electronically on the Office's website, un.org/disarmament/convarms/Register.

* The first 19 reports were issued under the following symbols: A/48/344 and Corr.1-3 and Add.1-2; A/49/352 and Corr.1-2 and Add.1-4; A/50/547 and Corr.1 and Add.1-4; A/51/300 and Add.1-5; A/52/312 and Corr.1-2 and Add.1-4; A/53/334 and Corr.1-2 and Add.1-2; A/54/226 and Corr.1 and Add.1-6; A/55/299 and Corr.1 and Add.1-6; A/56/257 and Corr.1 and Add.1-2; A/57/221 and Corr.1-2 and Add.1-3; A/58/203 and Corr.1-2 and Add.1-2; A/59/193 and Corr.1-2 and Add.1-2; A/60/160 and Corr.1-2 and Add.1-3; A/61/159 and Corr.1-2 and Add.1-3; A/62/170 and Add.1-3; A/63/120 and Add.1-3; A/64/135 and Add.1-3; A/65/133 and Add.1-5; A/66/127 and Corr.1-2.

Note: Germany consistently pursues a restrictive export control policy with regard to both armaments and dual-use goods intended for military purposes. This policy is based on article 26 of the Basic Law, obliging the State to control war weapons at all stages from manufacture to marketing. This constitutional obligation is given statutory form through the War Weapons Control Act, the Foreign Trade and Payments Act and the Foreign Trade and Payments Regulation. To underline its political will to pursue a restrictive arms-export policy and render transparent the way that policy is administered, the Government of the Federal Republic of Germany, on 19 January 2000, adopted a thoroughly revised version of the Political Principles Governing the Export of War Weapons and Other Military Equipment. The restrictive arms-export policy of the Federal Republic of Germany means in essence that war weapons may in principle only be exported to States members of the European Union and NATO or countries which by special decision have been granted equivalent status. Deliveries to other countries are only permitted in exceptional and precisely defined circumstances. The decision of whether to grant an export licence is in large part based upon conditions within the recipient country, in particular the human rights situation. Furthermore, deliveries must not contribute to exacerbating existing tensions. Finally, special attention is being paid to ascertaining the definitive end-use in the country of destination. At the end of the 1980s, intensified efforts by a number of countries to acquire equipment for the development and manufacture of weapons of mass destruction and delivery systems resulted in the extensive reform and further tightening of the German arms-export control regime, particularly concerning dual-use goods. The Government is committed to harmonizing arms-export control policy both at the European Union level and at the international level. A major step towards achieving this aim was the adoption by the European Council on 8 June 1998 of the European Union Code of Conduct on Arms Exports. It lays down eight common criteria for arms exports and procedure rules for the cooperation of European Union member States in this field. This common basis of European arms-export control was made legally binding on 8 December 2008, when the European Council adopted a Common Position containing a revised and strengthened version of the Code of Conduct. The European Union regulations on export controls for dual-use goods which came into force in their revised version in 2000 (see European Council dual-use regulation 1334/2000 of 22 June 2000, together with the most recent amendments by European Council regulation 428/2009 of 5 May 2009) have contributed to greater harmonization in this field. The Federal Republic of Germany is actively involved in the various international control regimes to prevent the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction and delivery systems, including the Nuclear Suppliers Group, the Australia Group and the Missile Technology Control Regime. With the Wassenaar Arrangement on Export Controls for Conventional Arms and Dual-Use Goods and Technologies, which was set up in 1996 with the collaboration of the Federal Republic of Germany, a comprehensive, general exchange of information among participating Governments has been agreed and a gap in the existing control system has been closed. This regime, too, is designed to harmonize arms-export regulations and procedures.
